Biting, bloodsucking horn flies torment dairy cows day and night. Harassment and daily blood loss may cut milk production as much as 20%, according to the USDA.

MoorMan's IGR Cattle Mix
(Insect growth regulator)

No resistance to horn flies reported by IGR customers in 14 seasons

Since 1976, MoorMan's IGR products have been fed to cattle from coast to coast and border to border. And not one customer has reported horn-fly resistance developing.

A 1,000-to-1,600-lb cow needs only 2.4 oz per day of IGR Cattle Mix—half a measuring cup—top-dressed or mixed in her ration.

Special Savings Now On IGR.

Your MoorMan Representative will have details the next time he calls on you to discuss your Mineral and Fly Control Program.

He will also show you the VALUE of a MoorMan Wind Vane Feeder and Early Purchase Savings available to you now on this top quality piece of equipment.

You can depend on two things to fight horn flies. And one of them is IGR Cattle Mix

The insect growth regulator in IGR Cattle Mix has been used 14 years to fight horn flies. Not one customer has ever reported resistance.

The selective pesticide methoprene (Altosid*) in IGR Cattle Mix is a feed-through. It stops horn fly pupae before they mature into harmful adults that cut milk production as much as 20%.

Small investment, big return

All you do is top-dress or mix a surprisingly small amount of IGR Cattle Mix with your milking ration. In fact, over a 150-day feeding period, just $8 of IGR Cattle Mix can save up to 750 lbs. of milk per cow.

And for non-lactating dairy cows and beef cattle on pasture, ask our representative about MoorMan's IGR Minerals® for free-choice feeding.
