BAIR (York Co.) — A dairy princess and a little dairy miss will be named during the annual York County Dairy Princess Pageant, beginning at 8 p.m., April 27, at the York County 4-H Center.

Contestants for the dairy princess title are Penny Jordan, Brogue, and Annie Rauhauser, Dover. Each will be interviewed prior to the pageant by a panel of judges, plus given an interview and "fishbowl" question while on stage. The winner and alternate will serve as spokespersons for York County's dairy industry and make numerous promotional appearances at school, club, community and agricultural activities. The princess will also represent York County at the state pageant, held during September at Harrisburg.

Penny Jordan, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jordan, Brogue R1. A junior at Red Lion Area High School, she is a member of the school's concert choir and recently participated in the group's appearance in Canada. She is also active with the youth group at the Chanceford Presbyterian Church. Penny owns three animals in the Jordans' 75-head milking herd and helps as needed with milking and feeding responsibilities on the family's Century Farm.

Annie Rauhauser, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rauhauser, 3161 Admire Road, Dover, and a junior at Dover Area High School. President of the Central 4-H dairy club, she exhibits cattle in 4-H and open class competition and is a member of the York 4-H dairy judging team. Annie helps with daily milking and calf feeding chores, and owns 20 head of cattle. The Rauhauser family maintains a 100-head milking string on their Hidden Springs farm.

Rebecca Kilgore, Airville, and Michelle Walker, New Freedom, will vie for the title of little dairy miss. The little dairy miss and alternate will participate in selected local dairy promotional events.

Rebecca Kilgore, 8, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Kilgore, Airville R2. She is a third-grade student at Clearview Elementary School. Rebecca helps feed the calves on the Kilgore family farm and exhibited a calf last season as a member of the Clover Bud 4-H beginners program. In addition to showing cows, she enjoys reading and swimming.

Michelle Walker, 8, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Walker, New Freedom R1. A second-grader at Friendship Elementary School, Michelle helps with calf feeding chores and post-dipping cows after milking. She exhibited a calf last year as a member of the 4-H Clover Bud program and also likes to sew, cross-stitch, and read.

Current reigning princess Angela Lang will make her farewell appearance at the pageant, along with special-guest former princesses selected since the program's inception in 1955. A Hanover-area barbershop quartet will entertain at the program, which is open to the general public.

Hold A Successful Garage Sale

ORANGE, NJ — Hundreds of thousands of "garage sales" will be held in the coming months. Many of the people holding these sales don't have a garage. So the "garage sales" are held in the front yard, back yard, basement, porch, breezeway or any place that merchandise can be displayed and potential customers accommodated.

We all know people who can't keep from stopping when they see a sign announcing a "sale." Just a small newspaper ad and some sign on fences and poles will bring you enough customers to make a retail store envious.

Consumer Education Research Center, a national nonprofit consumer group, has just published a book entitled, Holding Garage Sales for Fun and Profit that is a must for those planning a "garage sale." It advises you whether your temperament, location and merchandise will produce a successful sale.

Holding a Garage Sale for Fun and Profit can be obtained by sending a $4 (plus $2 postage & handling) to CERC, 350 Scotland Rd., Orange, NJ 07050.
