MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — More than 105 animals were in competition at the Somerset Co. Beef Jackpot Show held at the county fairgrounds here. Judging this event for the first time, Kent Carrothers, Coggin, Iowa, said the animals were of

"particularly high quality," and "very competitive."
Nathan Claycomb of Bedford Co. repeated his 1990 performance by taking the grand champion honors with his 1992 steer. Ryan Luellen, 17, Mooreland, had the reserve grand champion.
Heather Fuls, 11, Berlin, was named Somerset County champion exhibitor. The daughter of Kevin and Karen Fuls, she bought her steer from Klinger Farms in Missouri.

Dan Ferko, 18, Central City, was Somerset County reserve champion exhibitor. Doubling the sweetness for Ferko, his steer was chosen grand champion sale animal from the Club Calf Sale, held last October. It was purchased from Rachael and Greta Mostoller, Boswell.

Other county exhibitor winners were Jerry Ferko, Kevin Stahl, and Lindsey Schmuck. Reserve sale champion was Tim Bishop. Other Club Calf Sale winners were Derrick Crane, Chris Schmuck, and Ben Logan.

"They (steers) are well-fed and well-presented," said Carrothers. "I'm impressed with the kids," he said, stating that their behavior was courteous. He also noted with approval the young ages of some of the kids handling the animals in the five-hour show.
