was mixed and selective. Offerings of 3 pound and up sizes were adequate and in fairly good balance; lighter weights were ample and slow in clearing. Slaughter schedules were heavy. Live supplies were moderate to light; weights were light to desirable. Less than trucklot asking prices were generally unchanged at 51 to 61 cents; however, some light sizes were available as low as 48 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. Breast items remained available to a light and selective demand. Leg items continued to tighten, particularly leg quarters. Wings were fully adequate.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, September 30, 1992

Trucklot buying interest was irregular. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were fully adequate for a very light retail demand. Prices trended lower. Line run breasts were available but buyers limited receipts to immediate needs and wait for the market to develop. Shipper asking prices trended lower but some buyers bid even lower. Wings were available and slow to clear at current prices. Yellow skin leg quarters and thighs were in good balance with a fair demand and some buyer inquiries for next week deliveries were reported. Other items were adequate at steady prices.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, September 30, 1992

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices trended lower on all sizes in most areas in the East and in the Midwest, unchanged on the West Coast. The trade sentiment was cautiously steady to weak in most reporting areas; on the West Coast steady but the trade was concerned. Demand continued light to instances fairly good with the best call where features were in progress or planned for first of the month. Supplies of larger sizes were adequate to ample, mediums were adequate. Demand for light type hens was fair to good; supplies were in close balance; the trade sentiment was steady. Breaking stock prices were unchanged; demand was light; supplies were adequate to fully adequate; and, the undertone was steady at best.

New York Egg Market

Wednesday, September 30, 1992

Eastern PA & NJ Poultry

Atlanta, Ga.

Friday, September 25, 1992

Trading levels were about unchanged to slightly higher on light type fowl and sales too few to report prices on heavy hens. Offerings of lights were short to about in balance with needs while heavy hen availability remained limited. Demand was irregular ranging moderate to good. Some slaughter schedules will be reduced next week for Jewish holiday while others run short to desired capacities. Undertone at least steady to fully steady.
