

Association Releases Angus Sire Report

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — The Spring 1993 Angus Sire Evaluation Report is available free from the American Angus Association.

Issued in both the spring and fall, the new report features the latest performance information available on more than 3,000 sires.

The information is in the form of Expected Progeny Differences (EPDs). It is compiled from Angus Herd Improvement (AHIR) records submitted by breeders to the American Angus Association.

The report features a young sire supplement as well as a section for sires with mature daughter size EPD. Some 300 bulls are listed in the section for sires with carcass merit EPD. A brief explanation on how to read the report is also included.

A free booklet on how to understand EPDs and how to use the Angus Sire Evaluation report is also available. The booklet is entitled "Your Key to Accurate Bull Selection."

To request a Sire Evaluation Report or "Your Key to Accurate Bull Selection."
