

Stambaugh Retires From Beef Board

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Beef Council founding director Harry Stambaugh, Green Park, recently retired from the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

Stambaugh had served as a member of the board since the Beef Council's inception nearly 16 years ago.

A current director with the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and an Angus breeder from Perry County, Stambaugh will continue to serve as the Beef Council's representative on the U.S. Meat Export Federation. As a representative on a national checkoff-funded organization, Stambaugh will also continue to serve as an ex-officio member of the Beef Council Board.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council board of directors elected Velma Moggey, a beef producer from Clarion County to Stambaugh's vacant seat.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council administers the $1 per head beef checkoff program in Pennsylvania. Checkoff funds are invested in demand-building promotion, education, and research programs in Pennsylvania and nationally.

Harry S. Stambaugh, a Perry County Angus breeder, was recently recognized by the Pennsylvania Beef Council for his years of service to the industry as a Beef Council director. Stambaugh, whose term expired on the board, was replaced by Vem Moggey, a beef cattle producer from Clarion County.

Raw Milk Producers, Distributors Hold 52nd Meeting

COATESVILLE (Chester Co.) — The Pennsylvania Raw Milk

Producers-Distributors Association Inc. held their 52nd annual meeting on March 9 at Finestock Farm in Chester County.

Eighteen members and guests were in attendance from various Pennsylvania counties. The meeting is an annual event where members share a meal, fellowship and current relevant topics concerning marketing of their raw milk products.

A regular business meeting and open discussion took place after the meal.

Raw dairy cow milk is sold by the majority of the members in attendance. There were also three individuals present who represent the goat industry, an area in demand in some sections of our state.

This year, members and guests shared their hobbies by displaying them at the meeting. Quilts, hooked and braided rugs, aprons, stuffed animals, crocheted doilies, pillows, embroidered scarves, crocheted handkerchiefs and wall hangings were shown by one guest.

One member brought his collection of goat paraphernalia. Another member's interest was in the collection of old milk bottles and old milk signs. Some other displays showed painted angels, handmade-framed needlepoint, and books.

The officers for 1993 were elected. They are: Joseph C. Stump, president, from Stump-Acres Dairy, York County; Rick Goss, vice-president, from Palmyra; and Glendora M. Stump, secretary-treasurer, from Stump-Acres Dairy.

Joseph C. Stump, Ted Wilson and John St. John Jr. were re-elected to represent the association on the Pennsylvania Farm Show Committee in Harrisburg.

The association is open to all producers, marketers and anyone involved with raw dairy products.

For more information, call Glendora M. Stump at (717) 792-3216.
