

Gov. Proposes More WIC Funds

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Robert Casey has proposed additional funding for the Women, Infant and Children (WIC) Farmer's Market Coupon Program which permits the use of coupons to purchase fresh vegetables and produce from the state's farm markets.

The Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program issued a statement recently that praised the proposal, but did not specify the amount of the proposed increase.

The Vegetable Marketing and Research Program helped to fund the coupon program when it was first started as a pilot in 1989.

According to the news release, "Not only does it mean extra sales for farm markets across the state, but it provides quality, nutritious Pennsylvania-grown produce to members of our society who need it most: women with infants and children."

One of the goals of the marketing program is to encourage increased consumption of the state's vegetables.

Also supporting the praise, according to the news release, the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association also joined in supporting the increased funding proposal.
