Glenn Bollinger and Jere Patches Attend Major Tractor Introduction

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (March, 1993) - Glenn Bollinger and Jere Patches, of G&D Farm Equipment Co., located in Manheim, PA, recently attended the official introduction of a state-of-the-art 18-speed full powershift transmission in a new line of White high-horsepower tractors. The program was sponsored by AGCO Corporation, the parent company of White Tractor.

"The introduction of the 6100 Series powershift tractors provides the AGCO White dealers with a completely new entry into the high-horsepower powershift market," said AGCO President and CEO Robert J. Ratliff. "Our White dealers now have a complete line of tractors ranging from 63 to 191 PTO horsepower — all in one color — all with the White name."

Glenn Bollinger (left) and Jere Patches (right) are shown in this photograph with Mr. Ratliff in front of the new White 6195 model powershift tractor. Over 700 White dealers and their sales people come from all over the country to attend the tractor introduction which included detailed tractor feature/benefit presentations, training seminars and an opportunity to drive the new tractors.
