

A Lot Of Grass Harvested This Week

Aryn Musser harvests first cutting alfalfa on rented ground along Auction Road southwest of Manheim in Lancaster County. The rain this spring caused late planting of corn but made the grass and alfalfa grow very well. The good drying weather this week gave farmers the opportunity to make hay or harvest the crop for the silos.

The State crop report said hay stands across the state looked good, but new alfalfa plantings were stressed with the drier soil conditions. Weevil damage was reported and was substantial in some areas. Pasture conditions were good to excellent, and there was widespread grazing across the state.
