

FAIR DAYS

New Jersey's annual celebration of organic food and farming/gardening — sponsored by the Northeast Organic Farming Association/New Jersey (NOFA/NJ) — will take place this year on September 18 at the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association Reserve in Pennington, N.J.

Trauger Groh, biodynamic farmer for 33 years and author of "Farms of Tomorrow: Community Supported Farms, Farm-Supported Communities," will talk about the important role of the consumer in shaping tomorrow's agriculture.

More than 45 seminars, demonstrations, and tours will run throughout the day. Classes for the farmer/gardener will cover such topics as an introduction to organic growing, edible landscaping, urban/container gardening, lawn care, permaculture, and growing cover crops. Demonstrations include beekeeping, composting, threshing grain, starting a worm-box, aquaculture methods, and using season extenders. Demonstrations in cooking for health will also be featured.

Organic garden doctors will be on hand to diagnose garden problems. Farm/garden supplies such as topsoil/potting soil, fertilizers, farm tools, composting equipment, and pest control products will be available for sale. Farm/garden supplies and equipment will be auctioned in the afternoon.

Fairgoers will be able to sample and buy locally grown organic foods and talk to New Jersey organic farmers. Among the many treats for the palate will be whole wheat bagels with fruit jams, whole wheat pizza, corn on the cob with herbed butter, fresh peach short cakes, vegetable ratouille with fennel and masala, and much more.

For those interested in a day in the country, farm craft demonstrations include basket making, dried flowers, handcrafted brooms, woodturning, pottery, log furniture, dyeing and spinning. Entertainment will include something for all ages: storytelling, live music, and a dance at the end of the day. Games for all ages include the beann bug toss, potato putt, kite making, salad bar collage, butter dance, cakewalk, junior farmer's relay, and the farmers decathlon.

NOFA/NJ is an organization devoted to organic farm certification in New Jersey, certifying food as "organic" in accordance with established standards. NOFA/NJ also develops education and marketing programs for organic farmers in the state.

Admission to the Fair is $4 for adults, $1 for children 3-15, and free under three. Volunteers for the fair are admitted free of charge. Volunteers are needed for mailings, baking, distributing fliers, making signs, and more.

For information, contact NOFA/NJ, 31 Titus Mill Road, Pennington, NJ, 08534, (609) 737-6848.

Bollinger Wins Ag Scholarship

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Jeffrey Ray Bollinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Bollinger, 110 Royer Road, Ephrata, was recently awarded an $800 Adult Farmer Program, Ephrata Area School District ag scholarship. Jeff, attending Penn State, majors in animal science.

Jeff was a four-year member of the vo ag program at the school. He has carried projects in capons, market lambs, sheep breeding, and is completing a work experience at Henry B. Hoover Agway in Ephrata.

Jeff has served as a chapter officer and also on various chapter committees. He has achieved his chapter and county degrees as well as receiving the state Keystone Degree.

Jeff has participated in various local and state contests. He has also received two chapter proficiency awards. Other interests and areas of involvement for Jeff include Ephrata Church of the Nazarene youth group, Ephrata Bowmens Club, and Lancaster County 4-H Woolies Club.
