William Asbury, Penn State vice president for student affairs and honorary chairman of the Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference, left, and Jon Froehlich, 4-H member of Buckingham 4-H Club.

Jon Froehlich, son of David and Lynn Froehlich, 23 Chestnut Drive, Doylestown, recently participated in the fifth annual Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference held at the University Park Campus.

They attended workshops on interviewing skills, public speaking, and marketing. The ambassadors will serve as spokespersons for the 120,000 4-H members of Pennsylvania.

In addition to the workshops, the conference delegates visited with a number of Penn State faculty and administrators during a reception sponsored by William Asbury, vice president for student affairs.

State 4-H ambassadors promote the 4-H youth program and the land-grant university system and are available to speak to groups about Penn State Cooperative Extension and 4-H.

The 1993 Penn State 4-H Ambassador Conference was sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences, the Office of the Vice President for Student Services, and Pennsylvania Friends of 4-H, which provides scholarships for county delegates attending the conference.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $129 Million in Extra Payments

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past six years, we returned more than $129 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $36,600 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.7 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."
