Dealer Meets With Lawmakers

ty Campfield of Gro-Mor Plant Food Co. in Leola, Pa. recently met with federal lawmakers here during a national meeting of fertilizer and agricultural chemical retail dealers.

Campfield was among 300 dealers who attended the Agri-Dealer Legislative Conference.

Delegates to the conference met with dealers from 40 other states and visited with their legislators concerning issues important to the fertilizer and agricultural chemical industry.

The theme for this year's conference was "Growing Impact," and among the issues the dealers discussed with their legislators were food safety, reauthorization of the Clean Water Act, and federal taxation of fertilizer production and use. In addition to the BTU tax being considered in Congress, retail fertilizer and ag chemical dealers are also deeply concerned with fertilizer use taxes being proposed by Congressman Gerry Studds (D-MA). If enacted, this tax would transfer money from rural to urban areas for construction of city sewer and water treatment plants.

Agricultural Retailers Association President Paul Kindinger said, "Retailers who have taken time away from their businesses to attend this year's conference have made agriculture's voice heard in the nation's capitol."

"Record attendance at this year's conference shows just how concerned dealers are.

Green Tobacco Sickness Symptoms of GTS include nausea, vomiting, dizziness, and se-

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) - Workers engaged in the harvest of tobacco may be risking the development of green tobacco sickness (GTS), according to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH).

A 1992 study of a five-county area in Kentucky found that 47 tobacco workers sought emergency medical attention because of GTS.

The illness is caused by the absorption of nicotine from the surface of wet tobacco through the skin. Workers whose clothing becomes saturated from wet tobacco because of rain or dew are at a high risk for the development of the illness, according to the study.

Jackie Scott, a tobacco farmer from Kentucky who was hospitalized by the sickness, said that "nothing has ever made me sicker than working in wet tobacco. It can make you feel like you're going to die."

vere weakness. It is often accompanied by fluctuations in blood pressure, headaches, and difficulty breathing.

After observing workers harvest tobacco, NIOSH industrial hygienists made the following recommendations to be followed by persons engaged in the harvest of Avoid harvesting or working in wet tobacco.

• Protective clothing may reduce the risk. Wear chemical resistant gloves, plastic aprons, or rain suits to reduce the risk. However, this clothing may add to the risk of heat stress in hot weather.

 Workers who become ill while working with tobacco and who require medical attention should inform the doctors of the nicotine exposure to aid in the diagnosis.

Lancaster County Fair Season

(Continued from Page A40)

Manheim also has the county's only shepherds lead line contest, where sheep owners show off their animals and themselves as they model tailored wool outfits in the show ring.

The Baron Stiegel one-mile foot race and the annual parade are also unique attractions in Manheim.

The farm show will be held on the grounds and fields next to Manheim Central High School on Adele Avenue. The deadline for entries is 10 a.m. Monday.

Menday, Oct. 4: 3:30 p.m., swine show; 6:30 p.m., baby parade (rain date is Tuesday); 7 p.m., crowning of farm show queen; 7:30 p.m. Western Relay Outhouse races; 8:30 p.m., shepherds lead line contest. Tuesday, Oct. 5: 1 p.m., poultry judging; 6 p.m., beef judging; 6:30 p.m., baked goods sale; 7:30 p.m., children and adult pedal tractor suit.

tor pull. Wedneeday, Oct. 5: 9:30 a.m., county FFA greenhand livestock judging and tractor driving contest; 3 p.m., goat show; 6:35 p.m., Baron Stiegel mile run; 7 p.m., parade (rain date is Thursday); 8:30 p.m., introduction of farm show queens, 1954 to 1993; 9:15, antitarm show queens, 1954 to 1993; 9:15, ansque tractor parade.

Thursday, Oct. 7: 11 s.m., dairy show; 4 p.m., sheep show; 7 p.m., farmer's fun night.

Friday, Oct. 8: 10 s.m., FFA tractor driving contest; 6 p.m., Professor Fun Foolery show; 6:30 p.m., hog and goat sale; 8 p.m., lamb sale; 8:30 p.m., beef sale.

HOSS'S FORE FFA

Golf Tournament Dinner Auction October 4, 1993

Hawk Valley Golf Club, Denver, PA

$75 Entry Fee

includes cart & green fee, lunch, dinner, auction and team picture with Eagles Cheerleaders

$50 Fee

includes dinner & auction

For Reservations Call: 215-648-0674 or Hawk Valley Golf Club: 800 • 522 • HAWK

TOURNAMENT FEATURES

- Shotgun scramble
- · Limited to the first 144 entries
- Lunch and dinner
- Refreshment carts on course
- Souvenir team photos
- with the Philadelphia Eagles cheerleaders
- Contests:

Prizes will be awarded in both team and individual categories

Longest drive

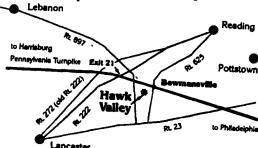

Closest to the pin and others

HOLE-IN-ONE PRIZE

HAWK VALLEY

Centrally located between Reading and Lancaster at Bowmansville. Just 5 minutes from the Tumpike exit 21

(Reading/Lancaster). First take 272, 3/4th mile north to Rt. 897, then right and follow the signs to Hawk Valley.

Dick Vermeil, ABC sports commentator and former head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles and Greg Gross, Philadelphia Phillies, both serve on the Fore FFA Golf Committee.

☆ Join the Eagles Cheerleaders to kickoff our FFA's 65th Anniversary! ☆

7:30 to 11:30