

Lancaster Farming

Vol. 38 No. 46 60¢ Per Copy Lancaster Farming, Saturday, September 25, 1993 Four Sections $19.75 Per Year

Jennifer Grimes Reigns

Jennifer Grimes from Berks County competed with 35 other county dairy princesses to win the Pennsylvania crown at the annual Harrisburg pageant. See page B 2 for the pageant story by Lou Ann Good, staff writer.

Barbara Reisinger holds the halter of the grand champion of the Pennsylvania Holstein Fall Championship Show, Miss Magic Flair, which also is the 1993 Keystone 3-Year-Old Futurity class winner. Marci Harnish, state alternate dairy princess, presents the rosette, while, on the left, Amy Mearkle, alternate princess, and Jennifer Grimes, state dairy princess, hold the banner declaring the cow grand champion.

Miss Magic Flair Wins Pa. Holstein Show, Futurity

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 3-year-old Holstein owned by Barbara Reisinger and Heidi Miller, of Carlisle not only won the Keystone 3-year-old Futurity and $1,189.22, but was also named grand champion of the state Holstein Fall Championship show.

Miss Magic Flair, a daughter of Romandale Magic, was first in the futurity class, besting an entry from Penn Gate Farm, of Littlestown, in Adams County, Penn Gate Mark Abbey, and then went on to outperform the best of the regular senior class winners to take the senior and grand championships.

The 3-year-old was also named best bred and owned of the show.

And though their entries didn't take the championship title, the cattle exhibited by Penn-Gate Farms were strong enough to win the family farm both the show's premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners.

The state show is the culmination of the year's officially sanctioned state Holstein shows. It is held annually at Harrisburg during All-American Dairy Show Week, which features national, regional and state dairy shows for all six recognized dairy breeds.

Judge for Tuesday's show was James Burdette, of Mercersburg, who is a well-known Holstein breeder and who has shown and won with his Windy-Knoll View prefix cattle, including a national champion, Windy-Knoll View Ultimate Pala.

Though it is Burdette's first judging of the Pennsylvania Fall Championship, he has been a judge for other states' Holstein shows.

According to statistics provided, Miss Magic Flair also has been milking well for the Reisinger-Miller partnership, recording 25,408 pounds of milk at

(Turn to Page A20)

Jay Hess with the champion FFA market steer.

Hess Wins Two Lampeter Livestock Shows

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor
LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — FFA and 4-H beef and hog judging were part of the Lampeter Community Fair on Wednesday. In both the FFA hog and FFA steer show, Jay Hess, Penn Manor FFA member, was the winner. In the afternoon 66-head hog show, Hess had the grand champion with a heavyweight crossbred gilt. In the evening steer show, Hess had

(Turn to Page A31)

Bruce Snyder, right, swept the supreme champion honors, picking up champion ram and ewe on Monday at the Reading Fair. At left is show judge David Lytle. For story and results, see page A26.

Sarah Boyd holds the trophy to her grand champion hog on Tuesday night at the Ephrata Fair. Her brother Gerald holds the ribbon. For story and results, see page A23.