

FFA To Present Keystone Degrees

(Continued from Page F7)

Swiss." Rachel, 18, daughter of Nathan and Laura Hawbaker, Chambersburg, Franklin County, has spent a lot of time raising dairy heifers and working part-time on a dairy farm "where I milk my own Guernsey dairy cow," she said. Rachel has served as chapter treasurer, secretary, reporter, and president. She received her Chapter and County degrees and the chapter FFA Star Farmer, leadership award, and Star Agribusiness.

Mark Heeter

Poultry science study will fill the college future of four-year Central Cove FFA member Mark Heeter. Mark, 17, son of Rex and Betty Heeter, Martinsburg, Blair County, has served as chapter sentinel, vice president, and president. He has participated in various contests and projects, including public speaking, state ag sales, National FFA Convention, legislative leadership conference, fall leadership conference, Food For America, land judging, and community service projects. Various projects include sheep breeding, capons, turkeys, potatoes, layers, and on-farm work experience. Mark was awarded the Star Greenhand and Star Chapter and a poultry production foundation award.

Karen B. Heilinger

Plans for four-year Eastern Lebanon County FFA member Karen Heilinger include Delaware Valley College with a major in dairy science. The 18-year-old daughter of Richard and Josephine Heilinger, Newmans town, Lebanon County has served her chapter as assistant parliamentarian, assistant secretary, secretary, and president. Karen also served as Lebanon County FFA secretary. She has served on the BOAC committee, the parliamentary procedure team, and various other committees, including public relations, banquet, Made For Excellence, and others.

Tanya Heisey

Going to college and majoring in either equine science or agricultural education form the plans for four-year Northern Lebanon FFA member Tanya Heisey. Tanya, 17, Jonestown, Lebanon County, has served as chapter secretary, vice president, and as county reporter. She has also chaired several committees, including dance and banquet, and several projects, including pleasure horse and on-farm work experience. She has participated in the state parliamentary procedure contest (winning first in states) and was in the top 12 in national competition. She received the Greenhand, Chapter, and County degrees.

Douglas K. Helman

Douglas Helman, 17, son of Bonnie Helman, Chambersburg, Franklin County, has served as James Buchanan FFA student adviser and as president. He said future plans include becoming a dairy farmer. Douglas has several FFA projects in his SAE, including dairy and beef cattle. He served on the fair, scholarship, and recreation committees.

Andy Heltzel

Central Cove FFA'er Andy Heltzel plans to attend a four-year college and major in dairy science, and then return to the family dairy farm. Andy, 18, son of Richard and Elaine Heltzel, Martinsburg, Blair County, has served his chapter as chaplain, vice president, and treasurer. SAE projects include dairy herd, swine finishing, and on-farm work experience. Andy has also served on the budget committee as chairman, and on the refreshment committee. Several contests he participated in include state creed, county land judging, legislative leadership conference, and other projects and conferences. He won the Wineland's Ag Mechanics, Soil and Water Management Foundation, and senior high and freshman scholarship awards.

Darin L. Hess

Varied plans are in store for four-year Manor FFA member Darin Hess, including "working at UPS and maybe going to school for travel tourism . . . (and) maybe open a collectibles store," he said. Darin, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Glenn Hess, Washington Boro, Lancaster County, has served as chapter sentinel and vice president. Ag experience projects include swine, and he has served on various poultry and meats judging teams. He received the Farm and Home Improvement Award.

Angela K. Hershey

According to Angela Hershey, "June 18, 1994, I will be married to Randy Bleacher, a partner in Bleacher Farms. Part of my job will be packing eggs twice daily and working in the fields. As a normal farmer's wife, I will be doing house chores and raising children in a few years." Angela, 17, daughter of Ms. Colleen Hershey and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hershey, lives in Willow Street, Lancaster County, and is a four-year member of Manor FFA. She has served her chapter as corresponding secretary, secretary, and president. Angela has worked for three years on Craig Frey's tobacco farm, and a two-year project included raising 12 pigs. She has served on the following committees: banquet, invitations, ticket, food, lock-in, theme party, yearbook, scrapbook, fair, raffle ticket, horse show, fruit sale, and pie sale. She received a first in the county in the dairy products contest, fourth in the state, and an honorable mention at national level. In addition, Angela has received her Greenhand, Chapter, and Star Red Rose in business.

David Wayland Heverly

David Wayland Heverly plans to attend a police academy and become a law enforcement officer. David, 17, son of John and Dorothy Heverly, Bellwood, Blair County, has served the Bellwood Antis FFA as chapter sentinel. David has served on the recreation and leadership committees. In addition, the Bellwood Antis FFA'er has received several awards, including the bronze livestock award, a silver in land judging, and a silver in ag mechanics. He also has received his Star Greenhand and Chapter degrees.

Adam Hileman

Attending Penn State to major in ag education to "obtain a successful job" is the plan for three-year Williamsburg FFA member Adam Hileman. Adam, 17, son of Phillip and Dolly Hileman, Williamsburg, Blair County, has served on various committees, including earnings, savings, and investment committee as chairman, and Food For America program. He participated in the state summer FFA convention, the Blair County Envirothon, and other projects. SAE includes swine finishing and on-farm work experience, and he placed first in the county in record keeping for his swine finishing project. Adam has received the Chapter Star Greenhand and Star Chapter awards.

Craig Hill

Craig Hill, 18, son of Nancy and Terry Hill, is a four-year Bellwood Antis FFA member. Craig has carried work experience for the last three years, and is a member of the recreation committee. Craig, four-year FFA member, served as chapter student adviser and earned his Greenhand and Chapter degrees.

Peter A. Hoffines

Plans for Peter Hoffines, four-year Elizabethtown FFA member, include a career in agriculture. Peter, 18, son of Robert and Linda Hoffines, Marietta, Lancaster County, has served as chapter chaplain and sentinel and vice president. Ag experience includes breeding sheep, market lambs, and market steers, in addition to work on the banquet planning committee. Peter has participated in the national livestock judging contest

(Turn to Page F11)

If you care about your

Fertrell[®]

Box 265, Bainbridge, PA 17502 (717) 367-1566

SOIL MANAGEMENT - ANIMAL NUTRITION - FOR TODAY'S FARMERS