When it comes to livestock or machinery investments, the same attitude especially applies to machinery investments. Before you replace any of your current equipment, you want to know how it's going to save you in fuel, time and labor? Is it built to last and it? These are the questions you are asking. That's why everyone at Case International is doing a lot of listening these days. Through focus groups, our whole organization is all ears to hear from you. Ongoing improvement of Case International products will continue as we approach the 21st century. And we will take quantum leaps forward as we approach the 21st century. And we will take quantum leaps forward as we approach the 21st century. And we will take quantum leaps forward as we approach the 21st century. And we will take quantum leaps forward as we approach the 21st century. Value-conscious buyers expect more than delivery of a product. They expect service to keep their equipment running at peak performance. Customer-focused quality is the responsibility of every one of us at Case International.
