Trade Show Set For Corn Classic

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Browse one of the best agricultural trade shows in the U.S. when you attend National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) "Rocky Mountain High" Corn Classic, Feb. 27 - March 1 in Denver, Colo. Every corn grower is invited to participate.

"Exhibitor commitments are already outstanding," said Scott Wall, who farms in Yuma County, Colo., one of the nation's largest corn-producing counties. "We expect companies will reserve close to 260 booths to display the latest innovations in agriculture. Corn Classic's trade show will be an excellent opportunity to conveniently check out options you may want to try."

Corn Classic's grand opening reception, sponsored by Sandoz Crop Protection Corp., is on Sunday, Feb. 27, from 5:30 p.m.-9:15 p.m. at the Colorado Convention Center. A sampling of Colorado cuisine will be served beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Welcoming ceremonies begin at 6:15 p.m. with greetings from NCGA President Pete Wenstrand and 1994 Corn Classic Chairman Scott Wall. A festive procession will then lead everyone into the trade show for a first glimpse of what's new in production and marketing and to enjoy dessert, coffee, and beverages.

The trade show is open during select hours each day of Corn Classic. In addition to the grand opening reception, the trade show features two breakfasts and two luncheons for Corn Classic attendees. During the Tuesday luncheon, a drawing will be held for Corn Classic's early registration prize, a lawn and garden tractor sponsored by Ford New Holland, Inc.

Also at the Tuesday luncheon, M&W Gear Company will hold its drawing for four winners of a season's use of their Earthmaster tillage tool as part of a joint Corn Classic/NCGA membership promotion.

The trade show will also feature a variety of product giveaways through a joint promotion sponsored by Farm Journal magazine, American Cyanamid Company, Deere & Company, and Northrup King Company in conjunction with NCGA's 1994 Corn Yield Guide.

Growers attending Corn Classic can also participate in educational programs highlighting production technology and marketing strategies and learn more about issues affecting their industry. They'll also enjoy an evening of entertainment provided by country music star Louise Mandrell and hear top name speakers, including political analyst Mark Shields.

Corn Classic is also offering two optional group-rate ski packages, making it easy for corn grower families to take advantage of Colorado's spectacular Rocky Mountains.

To register for Corn Classic, call NCGA at (314) 275-9915.
