

Heads up. Please.

Draft Horse, Mule Lovers Set 'Ag Progress Days'

(Continued from Page A30)

The event, sponsored by the Draft Horse and Mule Association of America, headquartered in Lovington, Ill., will be the final stop on a nationally sponsored tour starting in Boston a week earlier. Arthur Reist, Lancaster, the association president, said the whole reason behind the Horse and Mule Progress Days is the fact that manufacturers don't build machinery for the small ten to 15 acre farm where a person may want to use a horse or a small tractor to farm the land.

(Turn to Page A37)

Clods on steel.

We brake for low flying geese.

Hands-on experience.

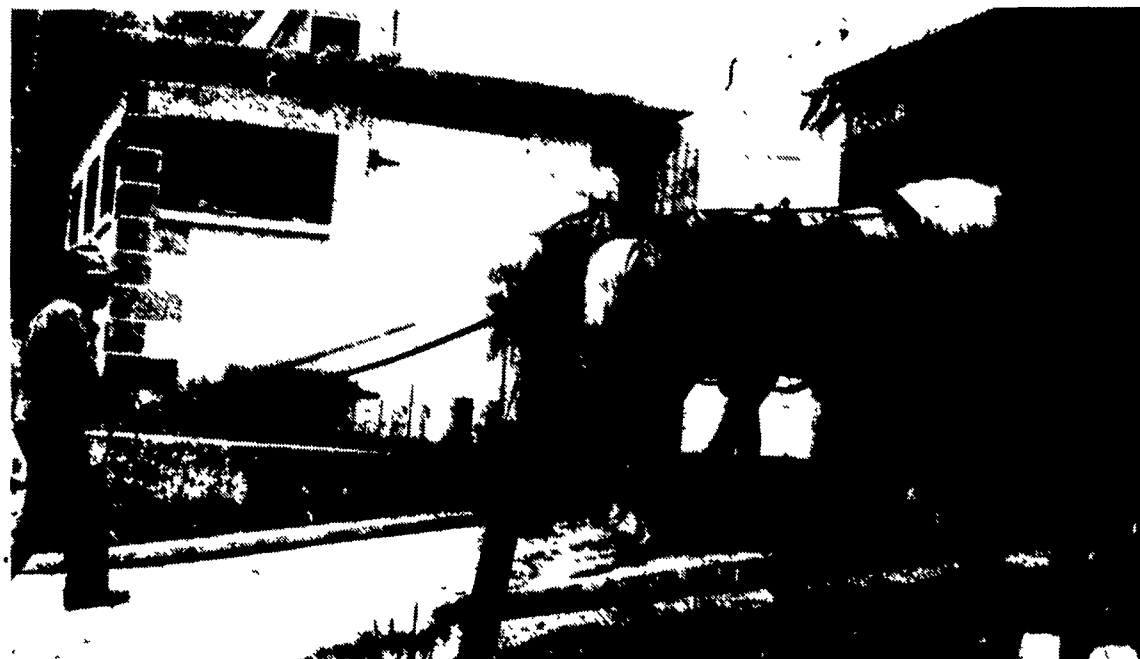

Stop horsing around with that camera.

Front-wheel drive.

Fill'er up.

When day is done.

Get your camera out of my private bedroom!