Carroll County Has New Dairy Princess

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent
WESTMINSTER, Md. — Mary Ellen Seraydian, the 1993 Carroll County Dairy Princess, handed over her title to Tanya Stambaugh recently at a ceremony held at the Carroll County Agricultural Center.

Tanya is a member of the Carroll County 4-H Dairy Club and a junior member of the county and state Holstein Association. She is president of the Union Bridge 4-H Club and secretary of the Francis Scott Key Future Farmers of America.

Last year was her first time to show at the Carroll County 4-H &

FFA Fair. But being a beginner didn't hold Tanya back. She won first place in the senior division of the dairy judging contest as well as reserve grand champion in fitting and showing with one of her Holsteins.

Although she says her dad, Barney, and her mom, Debbie, have been working on farms for as long as she can remember, the family just began operating their own farm near Uniontown about three years ago.

Tanya helps her mom and dad, and her four younger siblings, work the 165-acre dairy farm near Uniontown. They have almost 100 Holsteins and currently milk about 40.

"I take turns helping my dad milk along with my 15-year-old sister, Crystal," Tanya said.

Up at 4 a.m. on the days she helps milk, Tanya says she gets the dairy ready while her dad brings the cows in. "Then, I milk while he feeds." On the second group Tanya feeds and her dad milks.

"It has always been Daddy's dream to run his own farm," Tanya said with green eyes dancing. Like her father, Tanya says dairy farming is her dream, too.

As she goes from feeding the calves to working in the milk room, Tanya jokes about her future. "I'm going to have to marry a rich dairy farmer!"
