

Forage, Crops Information Available At Ag Progress

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.)—Visitors to Penn State's Ag Progress Days, August 16-18, can learn about new developments in forage and crop production in the Crop and Soil Science Tent, located at the end of East 5th Street.

"This year we're featuring plots showing different hay and forage growth as well as alternate forages, such as brassicas and chicory," says Dr. Marvin Hall, associate professor of agronomy and coordinator for the tent. "We will have sheep grazing on chicory in a demonstration pasture." Corn, soybean and sorghum demonstration plots also are located near the Crop and Soil Science Tent.

The tent features educational exhibits and demonstrations. Exhibits explore soil fertility and testing, nutrient management, pest control, forage quality testing, weed identification and other topics.

Farmers can visit the "Ask the Experts" booth to find solutions to problems with soil fertility, diseases, insects, corn, forages, small grains and tillage practices. Specialists from the Pennsylvania Crop Management Association and Penn State's agronomy, entomology and plant pathology departments will be on hand to share research results and answer questions.

Visitors to the Crop and Soil Science Tent also can test their knowledge using an agronomy quiz board, with questions about small grains, soybeans, corn, forage, and soil fertility.

Also at this site will be the Hay Show, with displays of the state's best hay samples. Growers who would like to enter the show are invited to bring samples to the Hay Show drop-off point near the Ag Progress Days east entrance on the morning of August 16. All growers will receive the results of their hay's evaluation.
