SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Richard Martin came away a big winner in the Ayrshire division competition of the Colored Breed Show at the Shippensburg Fair.

The Chambersburg resident won senior and grand champion honors in both the FFA and the open events with his four-year-old Wentworth Farm Benefactor Melanic.

Another impressive performance was turned in by Michael Brant of Mount Union.

During the Ayrshire event, Brant captured reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors in the FFA contest with his five-year-old Brants Homestead Pudge Betsy.

He also took Ayrshire junior champion honors in the FFA and open contests with his fall yearling Rushing-Springs Pearlman MARcia. If that wasn't enough, he then won the Ayrshire junior champion spot in the FFA show with winter yearling Rushing-Springs Mose Misty.

The senior and grand champion titles in the Ayrshire 4-H show went to Mary Ellen Deaven of Newville with her cow Honey Brook Comet Doris in the six-year-old and over class. The reserve senior and reserve grand champion titles in the 4-H Ayrshire event were won by Michelle Ocker of Shippensburg with Masonic-Homes Jade Megan, a dry cow in the four-years and under class.

The winner in the Ayrshire open show of the reserve senior and reserve grand champion titles was Janel Zinn of Newville with her senior two-year-old S&M Ayr Legends Doreen. The Ayrshire Best Animal Bred and Owned by Exhibitor honor was won by Heath Ocker of Shippensburg with Ockerdale Champ Jamie Joyce, a dry cow in the four years and under class.

A multiple winner in the Brown Swiss show was Aaron Cornman of Carlisle.

Cornman won the senior and grand champion titles in the open show and best udder of show honors with his four-year-old Shady Creek Bess Bingo.

Next, he took the senior and grand champion spots in the 4-H show with five-year-old Blackland Jade Quilla. Cornman also captured the junior champion 4-H nod with his spring yearling Justa-Beauty Crafty Lucky.

A double winner in the Brown Swiss event was Melissa L. Brantner of Lurgan, who won the senior and grand champion FFA honors her senior two-year-old Swamp Creek Jill. In addition, Brantner took the reserve junior champion FFA award with her winter calf Willow Grove Startrek Jill.

Amanda Peak was also a two-time winner in the the Brown Swiss competition. The Carlisle girl captured the junior champion FFA title with her winter calf Irons Toffie. She won junior champion honors in the open show too with the same animal.

champion place in the 4-H show with his winter calf Windmill Seattle Blossom.

John Garber III of Waynesboro was a frequent winner in the Guernsey contests.

Garber won the senior and grand champion titles in the 4-H and open shows and won the best udder of show award for his senior three-year-old Hooverville Alfs Rosenna. His spring calf Jo Penn Magic Marvelous took the reserve junior champion spot in the 4-H show.

Candi Garber of Waynesboro also brought home several ribbons. she won reserve senior and reserve grand champion honors in the 4-H and open shows with her five-year-old Guernsey Ro-mart King Leora. She also took the junior champion 4-H nod with her summer yearling Jo Penn Magic Daisy.

Melissa Brantner followed up her victories in the Brown Swiss show by winning three titles in the Guernsey contest. Her fall yearling Brandy O Franks Di Victory was named best animal bred and owned by an exhibitor and was picked as junior champion in the open show and the FFA show. Her winter calf Brandy O Di Victory Pricilla was named reserve junior FFA champion.

The Guernseyt reserve junior champion in the open show was Lee A. Hoover of Boiling Springs with his fall calf Le Lin Magic Velvet.

Repeat winners were the rule in the Milking Shorthorn contest.

Several titles were captured by Linnea Hoover. She won the senior and grand champion spots in the open show with her junior two-year-old Walnut Hollows Rose View. That same animal was picked as best udder of show. Her spring calf Le Lin Revolution Riples captured the reserve junior
