THE PENNSYLVANIA NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT LAW AND MANURE MARKETING

Leon Ressler
Extension Agent
Agriculture/Environment

Regulations are currently being developed for the Pennsylvania Nutrient Management Law which was passed in May of 1993. It is anticipated that the regulations will be completed by July of 1995. The first plans required under the law will then be due in July of 1996.

There has been some concern on the part of poultry farmers as to how the regulations would impact the exporting of manure from producing farms. The regulations concerning manure exports have been completed. Questions relating to what will be required to export manure can now be answered.

When a producer is transferring manure to a known landowner for land application, the producer's nutrient management plan will include the name(s) and location of the importer, the number of acres available for spreading manure, the amount of manure to be exported to each operation, and the intended seasons for the manure transfer. If manure will be transferred through a manure broker, the producers plan will list the broker's name, the estimated amount of manure to be transferred, and the seasons of transfer.

When manure is to be marketed with an open advertising system and the importers can not be identified at planning time, the plan will simply describe the proposed marketing scheme. The exporter of manure is responsible to record manure transfers on section one of a Manure Transfer Sheet which will be provided by the State Conservation Commission.

Where the exporter or person working under the direction of the exporter applies the manure to the land, the exporter will need to fill out section two of the Manure Transfer Sheet. For the exporters whose nutrient management plans identify the importers of the manure, there is no requirement to submit the manure transfer records to the agency approving the plan. However, for those whose plans do not identify the importers of manure, records of manure transfers will need to be submitted within one year of plan approval to the agency which approved the plan. Submittal of these records for subsequent years will be at the discretion of the agency which approved the plan.

When manure transfer records are required to be submitted to the reviewing authority, the exporter may either submit the Manure Transfer Sheets for all manure transfers in the appropriate time frame or the exporter can summarize the information from these sheets on the Annual Summary of Manure Transfers and submit this form only.

When a producer exports manure, he needs to provide the importer with a copy of the appropriately completed Manure Transfer Sheet. The manure exporter is also responsible to provide several documents to the importer, which will be supplied by the State Conservation Commission. These include a fact sheet allowing for quick estimation of manure application rates, the applicable section of the manure management manual, and a concise educational publication describing the key concepts of nutrient management.

One concern of manure exporters has been that if manure importers are required to do substantial paperwork to import manure they would purchase commercial fertilizer instead. These regulations do not put a significant burden on the importer. The importer is not required to complete a nutrient management plan unless more manure is imported than can be used by the crops grown on the farm.
