

Open House Dairy Barn Draws Crowd

A view of the milking parlor.

No place to park.

STRASBURG (Lancaster Co.) — The new state-of-the-art dairy facilities at the Glenn and Mildred Good family farm are ready to house 150 cows in a modern comfort stall barn with milking parlor.

But on Thursday, there were at least four times the number of people as cows in these facilities.

The event was the open house, or better called the open barn sponsored by the commercial businesses responsible for the erection of the buildings and silos and installation of the dairy equipment.

Starting at 10 a.m., a steady stream of cars filled into the farmstead located off Lime Valley Road, and for the noon lunch the place was packed.

Crowd gathered in the freestall barn for lunch.
