

Outstanding Shorthorn Performance Recognized

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Shorthorn producers were recognized and honored by the American Shorthorn Association for outstanding performance during the past year.

The awards were presented at the breed's annual meeting and award ceremony held in conjunction with the National Shorthorn Show at the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky.

Thirteen Shorthorn operations were named as recipients of the Century Club Award. A plaque was presented to any firm having registered 100 or more head of Shorthorns during the previous fiscal year.

This year's recipients were W. J. Hoyt & Sons, Burns, Ore.; Mantua Farms, Powell, Wyo.; Rocker Bros., Seward, Neb.; Bodmin Limited, Brussels, Ont., Canada; Don Cardey, Turlock, Calif.; Keith Lauer, Abilene, Kan.; Byland Polled Shorthorns, Loudonville, Ohio; Don R. Hoyt, Basin, Wyo.; Deer Trail Ranch, Powhattan, Kan.; Green Ridge Shorthorns, Urbana, Mo.; Whittle Bros., Golden City, Mo.; Frosty Acres, Inc. Adin, Calif.; and Shadybrook Farms, West Brome, Quebec, Canada.

Individual Shorthorn performance was recognized through the sire of the year, pacesetter dam and pacemaker sire award programs.

The Sire of the Year Award honors the top five sires in the breed determined by points accumulated by the show ring performance of their progeny. The award winning sires (in order of placings) and their owners were: 1) HS Rodeo Drive 062WR *x, owned by the HS Rodeo Drive 062WR Syndicate, Virginia, Ill.; Whitestone-Krebs, Gordon, Neb.; W. J. Hoyt & Sons, Burns, Ore.; Rex Cates & Family, Modoc, Ind.; Rex Tribbett, Linden, Ind.; and Biff Rator, Allen, Texas; 2) Deer Trail Awesome x, owned by the Deer Trail Awesome Syndicate, Deer Trail Ranch and Ed Grathwohl, Powhattan, Kan.; 3) RPS Grand Slam x, owned by the RPS Grand Slam Syndicate and Ralph J. Pope & Sons, Metcalf, Ill.; 4)

CC Cujo x, owned by J&H Land Co., Quincy, Calif., and Gary Chesnut, Fithian, Ill.; 5) GR Combo *x, owned by Green Ridge Shorthorns, Urbana, Mo.; Randy and Rhonda Henke, Salisbury, Mo.; and Kohlstaedt Farms, Wellington, Mo.

The Pacesetter Dam Award recognizes Shorthorn females that accumulated 500 P.A.C.E. show ring points on at least two progeny and have established breeding values through the Shorthorn Performance Records (SPR) program. Females achieving these standards this past year were Wernacres Duchess G, owned by Dale Wernicke, Lena, Ill.; and Mike and Marsha Mahony, Bath, NB, Canada; Waukaru First Lady x, owned by Tonquish Ponds Farm, Manitou Beach, Mich.; and Deer Trail Rhinestone x, owned by JHR Shorthorns, Effingham, Kan., and Deer Trail Ranch, Powhattan, Kas.

Two Shorthorn bucks were recognized as Pacemaker Sires. To receive the award, Shorthorn sires must accumulate 3,000 points on at least 10 progeny and who have established breeding values through the SRP program. The Pacemaker Sires were RPS Grand Slam x, owned by the RPS Grand Slam Syndicate and Ralph J. Pope & Sons, Metcalf, Ill.; and BJB Future Prophet x, owned by Don Cardey, Turlock, Calif.

3 Elected To APHA Board

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Three American Polled Hereford Association (APHA) members were elected to the national board of directors in November.

Jane Evans Cornelius, LaSalle, Colo.; Jim O'Mara, Jackson, Miss.; and Donato Ramos, Laredo, Texas, assumed their Board duties during the 72nd National Convention, Show & Sale in Kansas City, Mo.

Cornelius was elected to represent the states of Colorado, New Mexico, and Wyoming. The owner of Coyote Ridge Ranch, she and her children have been in the Polled Hereford business for 15 years. The ranch's 100 cows and 700 acres started as a 4-H project. Her son, Hampton, and his wife, Kay, now help manage the operation and Cornelius's other children, Coleman and Katie, are also involved.

Cornelius is also a certified public accountant and owns her own firm in Boulder. She has been active in the Colorado-Wyoming Polled Hereford Association (PHA) and served as its secretary from 1987 to 1992. The Colorado Cattlemen's Association, Larimer and Weld County Cattlemen's Associations and the Boulder County 4-H program have also benefited from her leadership.

APHA members in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi will be represented by O'Mara during the next four years. O'Mara, who owns Broadlawn Farms, began in the registered Polled Hereford business in 1982. Since then, his operation has grown to 100 females on 425 acres. He has served on the Mississippi PHA Board of Directors and as its secretary, was his state's delegate to APHA's Strategic Planning Conference in 1990 is a Mississippi Cattlemen's Association member and belongs to the Jackson Chamber of Commerce agribusiness committee. O'Mara, who is also an attorney, and his wife, Jeanette, have two children, Jay and Angie.

Ramos was selected last March to complete an unexpired term on the board; he now begins his own four years of elected service. He spent his childhood working on his grandfather's commercial cattle operation and has been in the purebred Polled Hereford business since 1964. Active in the Texas PHA, he has served as its president and on its board of directors. He also sits on the National Cattlemen's Association Beef Research and Education Committee and is involved in many community activities. In addition to managing his ranching enterprises, Ramos is an attorney. He has one daughter, Judy, and two sons, Don David and Freddy.
