

197 FFA'ers To Receive Degree

Jamie Harpster

Four-year State College Little Lions FFA member Jamie Harpster intends to "work with my father on our dairy cow farm, hopefully taking it over someday." Jamie's parents are Tom and Nancy Harpster, Pennsylvania Furnace, Centre County. Jamie has completed dairy goats, SAE on-farm, and other project experience. In addition, Jamie has served as chapter reporter and was honored with several awards, including public speaking, dairy production, diversified livestock production, and specialty animal production. Jamie received the Chapter degree and a bronze in state record keeping.

Lowell A. Harris Jr.

Citrus sales, banquet, fair, public relations, leadership, program of activities, and involvement in other committees were some of activities Lowell Harris participated in during his three years with Central Columbia FFA. Lowell, 18, son of Peter and Fran Drumin, Mifflinville, Columbia County, has served as chapter treasurer and delegate. He received his Greenhand and Chapter Farmer degrees. Lowell indicated he plans to attend college to study autobody technology.

Travis Hartranft

"Farming" forms the plans for two-year Manheim FFA member Travis Hartranft. Travis, 17, son of Rick and Marilyn Hartranft, Manheim, Lancaster County, is vice president of his chapter. He works for a plumbing and heating contractor and is also working on a local dairy farm. He received the silver medal on the ag mechanics team in Kansas City and has received his Greenhand and Chapter degrees.

Aimee Hauck

College is in the plans for four-year Central Columbia FFA member Aimee Hauck. Aimee, 17, daughter of Brenda and Donald Hauck, Orangeville, Columbia County, served as chapter secretary, vice president, and student adviser. She served on various committees, including citrus sales, banquet, program of activities, project PALS, fair, public speaking, and demonstration team. She attended various conferences and programs, including the National FFA Band, leadership conferences, meats judging, soil judging, parliamentary procedure, summer convention, and Mid-Winter Convention. She has received the chapter scholarship award and the Greenhand degree.

Justin Hedrick

Justin Hedrick, 18, son of Dennis and Geraldine Hedrick, Delta, York County, plans to obtain a degree in electrical engineering. Justin, four-year Kennard-Dale FFA member, has served as chapter president and chaplain and as county vice president and chaplain. In addition, Justin has participated in various contests, including parliamentary procedure, land judging, livestock judging, and project books for swine finishing, work experience, and capon production. He has obtained the Greenhand, White Rose, and Chapter degrees, and the Star Farmer and Dekalb awards.

Joleen Herbert

Hans Herr Chapter President Joleen Herbert plans to study for an associates degree in agribusiness at Penn State. Joleen, 17, daughter of LuAnn Newswanger, Terre Hill, Lancaster County, has shown sheep for the past two years. She served on the leadership and fruit sales committees. Joleen has attended a number of conferences, including the Eastern Region Leadership Conference, Made For Excellence Conference, State Legislative Leadership Conference, and the Red Rose County Leadership Conference. She received a bronze medal as a member of the national livestock team contest in 1993.

Matthew J. Hay

Matthew Hay plans to enroll in college to become a physical therapist. Matthew, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Hay, Garrett, Somerset County, has served as Meyersdale Area FFA historian and reporter and as county chaplain. Matthew has served on the parent banquet, FFA sweetheart, scrapbook, and flower bulb committees. He received the Greenhand and Chapter degrees.
