Bucks 4-H
Teens from the BUTTS coalition (Bucks United Toward Tobacco-free Students) are teaching younger children how to avoid smoking cigarettes. During the workshop "Joe Camel Wants You," which was part of the countywide Lead-On Conference, Bobbie Jo Dumire and Rachael Schweitzer, Perkasio; Sophia Histan, Sellersville; and Steve Pickett, Doylestown, helped youth identify target marketing by the tobacco industry. The workshop, led by adults from the BUTTS coalition, focused on advertising campaigns, such as the cartoon character Joe Camel. Lara Ruesch, of Bucks County Council on Alcohol and Drug Dependency, reported that Joe Camel is as familiar to 6-year-olds as Mickey Mouse. Ruesch quoted additional facts from the Surgeon General's Report for Kids About Smoking.

Pat Freiler, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Doylestown, coordinated plans for the workshop with BUTTS coalition members Sandy Sensibaugh, Bucks County Health Department and Diane Hudson Harris, American Cancer Society. Harris distributed Butts Are Gross posters to each participant. The posters were provided by the Pennsylvania Department of Health Tobacco Control Program.
