Pa. State Grange Names Youth Couple

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.)—Bob and Amy Noble, of Greenville, have barely been married but five months and now they have another "honeymoon" to celebrate: the Mercer County Grangers were named 1995-96 Young Couple for the Pennsylvania State Grange.

The Nobles were selected for the high honor during the Grange Youth Department's Youth/Young Marrieds Weekend Conference held here in Lancaster County.

It is an honor that the couple vigorously sought.

"We cherish the opportunity to serve the Grange as the Young Couple as we promote the Youth program and show people what the Grange has to offer," Amy said.

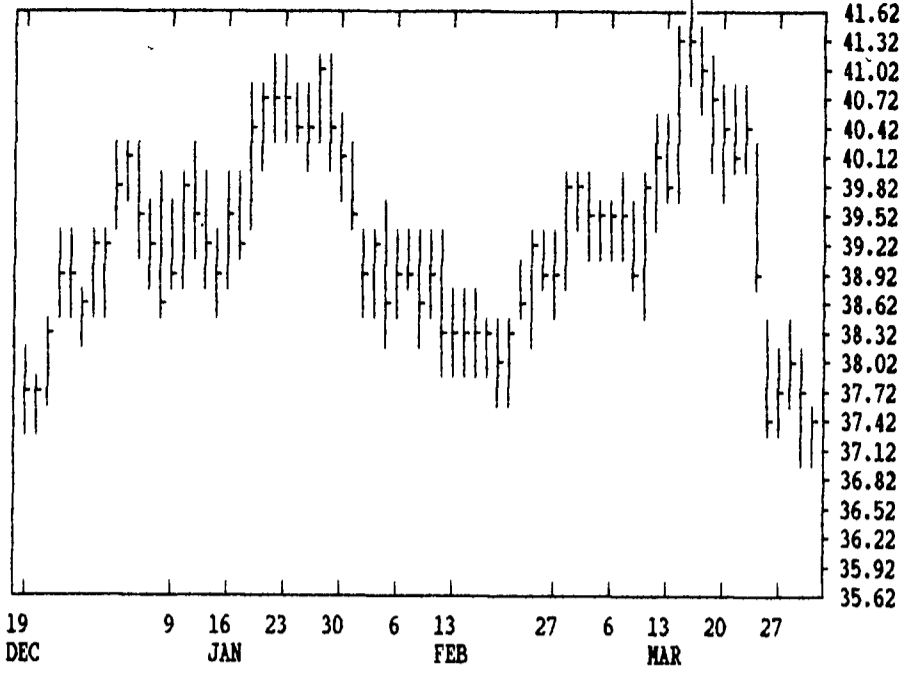

They were chosen the Young Couple based on an interview, ambassadorship qualities and Grange participation. Both are active in their subordinate (local) Grange, Stony Point Grange #1694, and serve on the PA State Grange's Youth Department Committee.

As the Young Couple, the Nobles will represent the Grange at various functions throughout the year, will visit local Granges, promote the Youth/Young Marrieds program of the Grange and serve as the "host" young couple at the 1995 National Grange Convention in Harrisburg this fall.

Outside the Grange, Bob is a senior designer and Amy is a substitute school teacher. They are parents of two boys, Joshua, 11, and Christopher, 10.

Major Change In Crop Reporting Date

YORK (York Co.)—Legislation approved by Congress has made significant changes in certain crop reporting dates.

date is revised from previous years' June 15 date."

The Pennsylvania State Grange is a family organization representing 33,000 rural Pennsylvanians. The organization offers a number of services such as insurance, food cooperatives and a credit union. The Youth/Young Married Department in the Grange encompasses members age 14 to 35 and promotes various activities for the different age groups.

At the Youth/Young Marrieds Weekend, couples get together for fellowship and socializing while participating in various workshops that educate about the Grange, family life and agricultural and rural affairs.

"The Federal Crop Insurance and USDA Reorganization Act, passed last year, established special dates for the 1995 crop year only," according to David S. Evans, vice chairperson of the York County Consolidated Farm Service Agency (formerly ASCS).

Evans, an East Prospect grain and livestock producer, said, "County farmers who are grain program participants and others who wish to record their farm crop history acreage must report wheat and barley by April 28, 1995. This Acreage reports are used to establish program compliance or a farm's cropping history for use in future years' farm program. Reports are taken on copies of aerial photographs with crops and acreages distinguished. Therefore, producers must visit the county office to file the report.

The York County Office is located at 120 Pleasant Acres Rd. in York. Office hours are Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Phone (717) 755-2801.
