

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — Dr. James Van Horn, professor of family sociology, at Penn State will be speaking on "Your Child is More Than You Think" at the Pennsylvania College of Technology on April 19. He will discuss how parents and educators can encourage self-esteem and help children develop to their fullest potential.

Dr. Van Horn has taught high school and college, has conducted hundreds of family education programs, written many publications, and presented numerous training sessions for professionals. He has spoken and written extensively on strengthening American families - family stress and family strengths. Van Horn writes a weekly feature by-line column "Today's Family" for the Associated Press which reaches more than five million homes. The column appears in more than 90 Pennsylvania newspapers alone.

Van Horn's presentation is for parents, grandparents, child care providers, teachers, and other individuals working with children of all ages. He will speak on Wednesday, April 19 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the Campus Center at Pennsylvania College of Technology.

Admission is free, but seating is limited. Sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and WIC of Lycoming County. Penn State is an affirmative action and equal opportunity university. For more information, call the Lycoming County Extension office, (717) 327-2350.
