

Great 8 Ad Shows Pork Cuts

CHICAGO, IL. — The Great 8 -- no, it's not a new drink or snack. It's a new pork advertising campaign targeted to dietitians which features the eight cuts of pork that fall between the skinless chicken breast and chicken thigh in terms of total fat content.

For years, chicken has nutritionally been considered the "gold standard" by healthcare professionals, and when providing dietary recommendations, patients were encouraged to eat chicken, while other meats were taboo. By showing pork can nutritionally compete with chicken, The Great 8 ad is attempting to move pork onto the playing field with chicken.
