Large Victorian home in Historic District

The Pearce house is the best surviving Queen Anne style home in Chestertown, and has been restored. It was built for Judge James Pearce, son of the mid-century U.S. Senator, by H.M. Stuart, one of the towns premier craftsmen. Notable are the banded exterior walls and ornaments of plaster and terra cotta. The porches, balustrades and irregular dormers, as well as the pink slate and detailed color scheme of the home, makes this a fine example of a period house with all its fabric intact.

LOCATION: 103 S.W. Maple Avenue, Chestertown, Maryland.

DIRECTIONS: On Route 213, going through Chestertown, Maryland.

TERMS: Deposit of $25,000.00 cash or certified check, balance at settlement in 60 days on or before from date of sale.
