MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Strong feet and width of muscling garnered a champion market goat for Jodi Gebhard, 16, Manheim on Wednesday at the Manheim Dairy Goat Show.

Jodi, daughter of Sonia and Mike Gebhard, showed her 9-month-old Nubian named "Jeremy" to grand champion.

Jodi, Manheim Central High School junior, obtained the goat from her grandfather, Jacob Fisher, Manheim.

Jodi's market goat, from the heavyweight class, weighed 101 pounds.

Reserve champion was shown by Jacey Fisher, 16, Manheim. Jacey, also a junior at Manheim Central, also obtained the goat from Jacob Fisher's farm. Jacey's reserve heavyweight goat weighed 105 pounds.

In the dairy goat show Wednesday night, judge Rick Stoneback, LaMancha breeder from Oxford, picked Nicole Eisenhower's goat as grand champion. Reserve was shown by Amanda Grube.

In addition, the Manheim Farm Show 4-H Pygmy Goat Show was held on Wednesday. Dennis Stauffer, judge from Myerstown and a pygmy goat breeder, selected the senior doe shown by Michael Stoner to grand champion.

Stauffer said he liked the doe for its "overall body capacity, straight top line — a real beautiful animal." Michael showed Creekside Farms Missy.

The reserve pygmy goat was shown by Jason Landis. Krishon Kids Picabo, the intermediate doe. Stauffer said he chose the doe as reserve champion "because it has a really nice head."

In the dairy goat show, there were a total of 71 goats and 23 exhibitors. Following is a list of show placings.

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — A 3-year-old Holstein owned by Joe Wivell of Columbia on Thursday was named grand and senior champion of the Manheim Farm Show Holstein Show. The Wivell family owns Donagel Creek Farm and has been a regular exhibitor at some area shows, having shown champions at Elizabethtown as well.

The Manheim Farm Show dairy shows featured three dairy cattle breeds, though Holsteins far out numbered the three Jersey cattle and one Guernsey.

Judge of the show was Creedin Cornman, of Carlisle. Despite the fact that it was the only entry in its breed, Cornman said that Jason Henisee's senior calf was one of the best Guernseys he's ever seen. Of course it was named junior champion and grand champion.
