

New Hybrids Resist Corn Borer

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Northrup King Co. Bt corn was approved for commercial sale in the United States by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

European corn borer-resistant hybrids, available for 1997 planting, will provide "built-in" protection against a pest that is estimated to cost corn farmers up to $1 billion annually as a result of decreased yields.

EPA approval arrives amid current corn supply concerns, according to Ed Shonsey, Northrup King president and CEO. Low corn production in 1995 left grain stocks in the U.S. at record lows. This season's harvest estimates have also been reduced because of the cold, wet spring and summer, as well as by severe corn borer infestations in many parts of the Corn Belt.

Bt corn will help farmers harvest more of their crop in 1997, should corn borers strike, and will also help replenish grain supplies.
