

Lambs Resold To Benefit Lancaster 4-H Clubs

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The big prices were reserved for the little lambs at the Solanco Fair livestock auction last Friday night.

Allison Hughes' 130-pound grand champion sold for $10 per pound to Kline's Septic Service in Salunga and was put up for resale to benefit the Lancaster County 4-H clubs. The lamb sold the second time for $2.05 to Jim and Eleanor Kreider, Quarryville. Tiffany Dean's 116-reserve grand champion sold for $13.50 per pound to Dr. Richard Albright, Jr., Lancaster. The Albright family also put this lamb up for resale to benefit the Lancaster 4-H clubs, and the second price was $5 per pound from Edgefield Farms, Quarryville.

The grand champion steer was again bought by Ferguson and Hassler, Quarryville. Hope Long's 1,150-pound grand champion sold for $4.05 per pound. Long also had the grand champion at the fair last year, which Ferguson and Hassler bought for $4.85 per pound.

The reserve grand champion, shown by Jessica Schmidt, sold for $1.70 per pound to K & S Inc., Quarryville. Schmidt's steer weighed 1,210 pounds.

In the swine sale, Ashley Rohrer's 270-pound grand champion sold for $1.70 per pound to Shady Birch Farms, Quarryville, and Alex Ranck's 262-pound reserve grand champion sold to Stoltzfus Feeds, Gap, for $3.30 per pound.

The sale averages without the grand champions are: steers, $.93; hogs, $1.20, and sheep, $1.67.

Auction services and supplies were donated by Lloyd Kreider, New Providence; Dale Stoltzfus, Gap; Ron Bard, Quarryville, and Randy Ranck, Lancaster.

Allison Hughes sold her grand champion market lamb to Kline Septic, represented by from left, Dave, John, and Kyle Kline.

Tom and Kathle Kreider from Shady Birch Farms purchased Ashlee Rohrer's grand champion hog.

Alex Ranck sold his reserve grand champion hog to Stoltzfus Feeds, represented by Leon Stoltzfus.

Tiffany Dean sold her reserve grand champion market lamb to Dr. Richard Albright, Jr., represented by Mrs. Albright and grandson Joseph Guyluzya.

Jessica Schmidt sold her reserve grand champion to K & S Inc., represented by James Kreider and Tom Snyder.

Hope Long sold her grand champion steer to Ferguson and Hassler, represented by from left, Jim, Tim, and Chip Hassler.

Zena Wins Ephrata Dairy Show

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — There were only seven dairy animals in the Ephrata Fair show, but Judge Wendell Mickelson, local dairy service man, picked a veteran show winner for the grand champion.

C. Wadden Counsler Zena, an aged cow showing dry, was the grand champion. You will know Zena as the grand champion of both the Lancaster County 4-H show and the Elizabethtown Fair dairy show. She is shown by Danny Bollinger, Manheim.

Reserve grand champion honors went to James Zimmerman's milky-looking two year-old. Nathan Weiler had the junior champion with a red senior calf, and Philip Weiler had the reserve junior champion with a fall yearling. Danny Bollinger's three year-old was the reserve grand champion of the youth show.

In the Brown Swiss breed, Gerald Boyd, Ephrata, had the junior and grand champion with KEB Clay View Sens Bonnie, a summer yearling. His spring yearling was the reserve junior and reserve grand champion.

Danny Bollinger shows the supreme champion at the Ephrata Fair dairy show.

