

Esther Herr of Quarryville won blue ribbons for her hand embroidered quilt and matching pillow shams and two dolls. She has entered her handwork at the Solanco Fair for 10 years and wins either first or second ribbons every time. For 26 years, she has been rolling out pot pie for the meals served at the annual Fair.

Who's Behind Fair Success?

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Visitors to fairs seldom think about all the behind the scenes work that goes into making a fair successful. Hundreds of people volunteer not only during the week of the fair but sometimes months. Here are a few of the hunreds who do a great job in making the Solanco Fair in Quarryville a success.

It is not unusual to find volunteers such as Ruth Clark and Anna Jane Glisson, both of Quarryville, who have served on committees for more than 25 years.

Esther Herr of Quarryville is an example of a person who plays a dual role in fair success. For 26 years, she has been rolling out dough for the pot pie dinners served at the fair. Throughout the year, she works on needlework projects to enter in competition.

Tallying the results of needlework entries at the Solanco Fair, from left, are Ruth Clark Quarryville; Anna Jane Glisson, Quarryville; and Nancy Wimer, Kirkwood. Not only do they keep records of each entry but also cover the tables with paper to display the items, arrange the exhibits attractively, make the attached signs, and cover the items with clear plastic to protect the display. Clark and Glisson have been on the needlework committee for 26 years.
