BUTLER (Butler Co.) — Once again the Western Pennsylvania Vegetable and Berry Growers Seminar will be held here at the Days Inn on Thursday, Dec. 12.

Every year growers from western Pennsylvania as well as parts of Ohio and West Virginia meet to learn the latest information and products available to help them grow top quality produce. Speakers from universities and private industry will discuss production practices, marketing, pest management, and other topics.

Commercial exhibitors include seed companies, chemical companies, machinery dealers, greenhouse suppliers, irrigation equipment and distributors of a wide range of products for the commercial grower. Penn State extension and commercial suppliers are again co-sponsoring this event.

Two special concurrent sessions will be held with the main vegetable production seminars. The morning special session will be on marketing and customer relations, featuring special guest speaker Pittsburgh Post Gazette Food Editor Suzanne Martinson. The afternoon special session will feature Dr. Marvin Pritts of Cornell University, speaking on weed control strategies for small fruit production and also a special grower discussion of the plasticulture system of growing strawberries.

The main vegetable production sessions will emphasize commercial production of tomatoes. Denny Summers of Asgrow Seed Company will discuss development of tomato varieties now and in the future. Mike Orzolek of Penn State University will discuss different growing systems for commercial fresh market tomato production.

Alan MacNab, Penn State pathologist for vegetable crops will recount and explain the many disease problems suffered by tomatoes and other crops in the entomologist for vegetable crops with the Penn State Entomology Department.

To register or for more information, contact Penn State Extension, Westmoreland County, RR 12, Box 202E, Greensburg, PA 15601, (412) 837-1402 or any Penn State extension office in western Pennsylvania.
