

Fixing Things On The Farm Prepares Teen For State Competition

fertilizer needs. Manure from their own farm is used on the 300 acres and purchased fertilizer has been reduced since they first purchased the farm in 1979.

They've added 20 more stalls, a silo, and built an equipment shed since they purchased the farm.

"I'd like to have more land, but we can't get it," Floyd said.

Although Joshua's high mechanical scores are certain to attract job offers, he said, "I'd rather farm. I've always seen myself as a farmer."

He enjoys competing in four-wheeler pulls, where participants soup up four-wheelers to pull scaled-down skid loads. Joshua is a member of the Berks County Pullers Association.

He also races golf carts on a nearby trac. Speeds are about 60 miles per hour. His sister Abby helps him prepare for the races.

Joshua and his dad restored a Pontiac GTO, by replacing the interior and the motor. Although Joshua drives the GTO when participating in cruise tours, his usual mode of transportation is a 1972 Nova SuperSport.

Joshua believes the benefits of growing up on the farm are many and varied. For him, it has prepared him to exactly as he dreamed as a young boy.

This miniature horse has been bred to add to the pets the family enjoys on the farm. Because family and friends are important to the Kurtz family, they often invite the church youth group and other friends to enjoy the swimming pool, the two large trampolines, other play equipment, and, of course, the farm.

Rebecca enjoys playing with Boston Terriers that they raise until ready to sell.
