

HARRY W. MOSHOLDER

Keeping debt load and costs down are the keys to successful business management on a dairy, according to Harry Mosholder in Rockwood. "Never spend any more money than you could afford to lose," he noted. The farm raises all of its own grain, including 60 acres of corn, 17 acres of oats, and more than 100 acres of hay. They also pasture the cows, but don't use rotational grazing. This Dairy of Distinction includes 115 tillable acres on the farm and an additional 30 rented acres. According to Harry, the dairy cares for 40 milking Holstein, mostly registered, and 40 young stock. Milking is from ties-tall to pipeline. On DHIA, the herd averages 22,500 pounds of milk, 730 protein, and 830 fat. The milk is shipped to Gallikers in Johnstown. Mosholder said a TMR is used. The farm has been in the family since 1906, and Mosholder finally purchased the farm in 1972. Harry farms with wife Donna, a schoolteacher, and sons William, 21, a junior at Penn State majoring in dairy and animal science and Matt, 15. Harry's mother Dorothy also helps work the land. Also, Harry's sister Pat helps on the farm.
