YORK (York Co.) — It was two for two at the York County Holstein Show, as Sunnybend Tangelo Counselor claimed her second-in-a-row championship over the annual county competition, held July 16 at the York Fairgrounds.

The senior three-year-old, also named best bred and owned, as in the show string of Tom and June Boyer's Sunnybend Farms, York. She freshened last year right at two years of age and earned a Very-Good 88 score on her first classification. While claiming several awards on the show circuit, the stylish heifer also tallied up a 365-day first lactation of more than 28,000 pounds of milk production. She is owned by Bridgette Boyer Bortner and bred from of a line of 4-H and open class winners.

Reserve champion honors stayed in the same age class, going to the second-placed senior three-year-old, Dar-Dale Russ Robin. She was bred and exhibited by Dar-Dale Farm, owned by the Dale and Darla Doll family, Glen Rock. Unscored as a heifer, she produced a first lactation of 18,000 milk and is projected at over 20,000 in her second lactation. The reserve champion further was the anchor for the Doll's first-place win in the prestigious Best Three Females, bred and owned, lineup.

In announcing his selections, judge and Maryland Holstein breeder Chris Hill praised the pairs' powerful front ends and beautiful udders. Judge Hill also noted a championship honorable mention to the first-place senior two-year-old, Walk-Le Encore Amy, exhibited by Walk-Le Holsteins, Thomasville.

Both the Doll and Boyer families were again summoned together into the show ring at the close of the show, when they tied for the Premier Breeder banners. Premier Exhibitor points also tallied to a tie, with the banner honors shared by the Dolls and the Leroy and Brenda Walker family's Walk-Le Holsteins.

Junior champion honors went to JCY April Starbuck ET, a powerful, stylish spring yearling shown by youth exhibitor Amy Trimmer, East Berlin. Reserve junior champion, and best junior animal bred and owned, was Beshore Polo Stephanie, the fall calf exhibited by Beshore Farms, New Cumberland.

One of the most crowd-popular awards of the annual show went to seven-year-old KC Beshore, who walked off with first place in the Kiddie Class. KC is the son of

A partial list of winners follows:

Spring Calf: 1. Coredale Broker Cutie, Cory Thompson; 2. Woodbine Farm; 3. Sunnybend Farm.

Winter Calf: 1. L & J Dandy Mrs. Kathleen Doll; 2. Dar-Dale Farm; 3. Walk-Le Holsteins

Fall Calf: 1. Beshore Polo Stephanie, Beshore Farms; 2. Woodbine Farm; 3.

Holstein, Brown Swiss Share York 4-H Dairy Supreme Honors

YORK (York Co.) — "Outstanding breed winners" was the description pooled by York 4-H Dairy Show judges Paul King, West Virginia, and Wayne Stiles, Maryland, as they surveyed the lineup of champions gathered in the York Fairgrounds livestock arena July 15 for the crowning of the supreme champion. "Let longevity take its advantage," said judge King as he awarded the supreme champion overall title to the aged cow Holstein winner exhibited by East Berlin 4-H'er Amy Trimmer. Gentle-Touch S. Wind Rebecca, a 6-year-old, is scored VG-88 with a lifetime production of over 110,000 pounds of milk. Her current lactation is projected to be completed with over 30,000 pounds production.

Placing a "close second" in the supreme contention was the stylish young Brown Swiss champion, exhibited by Josh Hushon, Delta. Brothers Three Nutty Buddy is a junior three-year-old, also scored VG-88 and completed her first lactation with 18,600 pounds. She was a 1996 Junior All-American two-year-old and nominated for All-American honors.

In the Ayrshire breed runoffs, veteran 4-H'er Jason Stambaugh, East Berlin, claimed senior and grand champion ribbons with Doshier Astro Anne, the winning senior three-year-old entry. Reserve honors went to Anchor-Mere T Alta, the four-year-old entry of Stephanie Pomraning, Delta. Champion bred and owned was Triple-J Value Julie, a five-year-old of Jason Stambaugh.

Ayrshire junior champions were the pair of winning fall calves. Jamie Welsh, East Berlin, took the top heifer honor with Masonic Homes Rulers Gypsy, over the reserve and best junior bred and owned, My-T Sailor's Callie, exhibited by Delta 4-H'er Stephanie Pomraning.

In addition to his supreme bred and owned Brown Swiss, Josh Hushon made a clean sweep of the breed honors. The Delta 4-H member claimed reserve senior and grand champion breed titles with his five-year-old Lake Lane Pebbles. Junior champion was his fall calf, Top Acres Leverage Lillian, over the reserve champion, spring yearling Brothers Three

Supreme champion overall at the York 4-H Dairy Roundup was the Holstein aged cow, Gentle Touch Wind Rebecca, exhibited by Amy Trimmer. Presenting the award was dairy princess Amanda Daugherty.

Nutrageous.

Junior 4-H member Terri Johnson, York, topped the Guernsey breed show, taking senior and grand champion with Rutter Bros Perfectos Lydia. In the reserve senior and grand spot was Romella Nobility Brownie, the senior three-year-old exhibited by Kimberly Pomraning of Delta.

Terri Johnson also took the junior champion rosette, with winter yearling Rutter Bros Magics Wendy. Kimberly Pomraning's spring yearling, Cedar Fringed Butterrum, was the reserve champion heifer.

Standing senior and grand reserve in the Holstein show to Amy Trimmer's overall supreme was Greg Walker, Thomasville, with senior two-year-old Walk-Le Encore Amy. Walker also exhibited the best bred and owned Holstein, four-year-old Walk-Le KQ Misty.

Amy Trimmer added the Holstein junior champion win to her collection of awards, with spring yearling J.C.Y. April Starbuck-ET. Reserve honors went to Airville junior 4-H'er Shane Hall, exhibiting the winning fall calf, Woodbine Starbuck Eva.

In the Jersey breed contention, Suzann Pomraning finished in the grand and reserve champion spot with Frank Theodore Lilli, a senior two-year-old. Reserve
