A pair of maternal sisters took grand and reserve grand champion honors at the Elizabethtown Fair Holstein show, Thursday. They were both bred by Hill-Top Farm of the Lowell Brubaker family, Manheim. But the reserve grand champion was the gift calf the Brubakers gave to the annual youth program of the Lancaster County

Holstein Association.

The grand champion was the two-year-old Hill-Top Heritage Astre Bobbie for Lowell Brubaker. Judge Scott Cooper, York County dairyman, said he went with his first impressions of strength and udder on the young cow.

The reserve grand champion and grand champion of the youth show was three-year-old Hill-Top Heritage Star Gift bred by Brubaker and owned and shown by Heather Oberholtzer, Elizabethtown. Heather received the champion as a calf for her youth project work in 1990. Each year the Lancaster Holstein Association teams up with a local breeder to present a registered calf as incentive for youth to become active in the Holstein breed development.

The reserve grand champion of the youth show was shown by Denise Bollinger, Manheim, a four-year-old.
