This understanding opened up a whole new way of looking at success and failure for Gerald. Now a college student at Millersville University, Gerald is reaping the benefits of skills he learned through multi-varied participation in 4-H activities.

In addition to showing livestock, Gerald's most notable achievements were in being a Poland exchange student and a part of the champion 4-H livestock judging team that traveled the East Coast.

"This odyssey is part of my 4-H story and could become the dream of every 4-H'er in this room," Gerald said. "4-H is a wonderful opportunity for parents and youth. Reach for the stars, set goals high, and see how 4-H offers a world of opportunity."

In addition, Gerald also won a $500 scholarship. Other scholarship winners were Sara Strickler, $300, and Jeff Lefever, $200.

Six 4-H'ers participated in talent competition throughout the evening. Elisa Ranck received first place for playing the harp, Ryan Mast second place for a solo, and Crystal Glick third place for performing an Irish dance. In addition Rachelle Newcomer and Kevin Hooper performed piano solos and Karen Craven and Amy Kirker performed a flute duet.

Recognition was given to numerous 4-H'ers and leaders for outstanding involvement in the 4-H program.

In appreciation to Zoann Parker, former county 4-H agent and now state executive deputy secretary of
