

DUNNS-PRIDE FARM

The Dunns-Pride Farm, located near New Ringgold in Schuylkill County, is owned by James Dunn. Mostly registered Holsteins produce 27,000 pounds of milk. They milk in 86 tie stalls with 100 cows total plus all calves raised for beef or as replacements. They have flushed a few cows and have a few bulls in studs. James thinks good feed and good genetics are important. And he believes the good feed starts with good nutrient levels in the soil.

The farm was a vegetable and fruit farm 10 years ago. In that short time they have developed the herd and made improvements on the farmstead to merit the Dairy of Distinction Award.
