

Test Plots Demonstrate Field Conditions

The Monsanto Company held a showcase of the latest in crop production technology at the Brubaker AGronomic Consulting Research Farm, Ephrata on Tuesday afternoon. Jeff Vance, Monsanto's coordinator for the event, said the purpose of the event was to show some of the technologies that are available today and some that are coming down the road. "Things have changed so much over the last several years we want to answer any questions our customers may have about our products," Vance said. "Roundup ready soybeans" have developed a tremendous amount of market share over the last two or three years. Now roundup ready corn promises to do the same thing especially in Lancaster County and other areas where grass and broad-leaf weeds are a problem. Where farmers needed two products, now they can get control with only one product."

The demonstration plots showed how the different products worked in actual field conditions. Officials expected 150 farmers, dealers, and crop consultants to attend the late afternoon meeting.
