Great View B-Star Mabel, a 5-year-old Holstein exhibited by Heather Brubaker, daughter of Lowell and Deb Brubaker, of Hilltop Heritage Holsteins, was named supreme champion in the final competition of the Elizabethtown Fair's dairy shows of the Holstein and Jersey breeds.

Judge of the dairy shows and youth showmanship competitions was Alan Hostetter, of Dale-Pride Holsteins in Annville, Lebanon County.

The Elizabethtown Fair supreme dairy animal competition is for youth exhibitors, but both grand champions of each breed carried dual division grand championships; for the open and youth divisions.

Andrew Dice, of Blue Mountain View Farm in Fredericksburg, Lebanon County, exhibited the grand champion Jersey of both the youth and open division shows. His 8-year-old Marantha Deacons Cherub received praise from show judge for its age, height of udder floor above the hocks, strength and stature, but he gave the advantage to the Holstein, which had won best udder in its breed show, for being more correct and exhibiting more dairyness on Thursday.

In the rest of the Holstein open division show, the reserve grand and reserve senior champion was a 3-year-old, Seven-Gen Rail Donna, owned by Clair Oberholtzer of Elizabethtown, the seventh generation to farm on the home farm.

The open division junior champion Holstein was a senior yearling, Donegal Creek Bellwood Alta-ET, bred and owned by Joe Wivell of Elizabethtown.

The reserve junior champion of the open division and the junior champion of the youth division was a junior yearling, Hilltop Heritage Astrojet Fidelle, owned by Blake Brubaker, Heather's brother.

The reserve grand champion of the youth division Holstein show was a 4-year-old, Hilltop Heritage Astre Bobbie, exhibited by Blake Brubaker.

The reserve junior champion of the youth division was an intermediate yearling, Donegal Creek Bellwood Rachel, owned by Justin Wivell, Joe's son.

In the Jersey breed open division, the reserve senior and reserve grand champion was a 4-year-old, Blue Mountain Yankee Adrienne, owned by Harold Dice.

Not Too Late For PAADS Entries

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — There's still time to be part of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, celebrating 35 years of great dairy cattle shows, challenging youth competitions and exciting cattle sales.

The late entry deadline was Sept. 2, but a new rule allows entries postmarked after Sept. 2 to be accepted at a fee of $100 per animal. These entries received or hand-delivered to the dairy cattle superintendent, will be accepted until 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 20.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, the largest dairy exhibition on the East Coast, is held in the Farm Show Complex, Maclay and Cameron Sts., Harrisburg. The Farm Show Complex is a totally indoor facility, boasting the best accommodations and milking facility anywhere on the show circuit. The milking parlor has the capacity to milk 36 animals simultaneously.

Exhibitors at the show are treated to numerous amenities, such as continental milk and donuts breakfast, a free USA Today newspaper, and on all-you-can-eat buffet on Wednesday night of the show.

With a definite focus on youth, the show has many features to make their experience a memorable one. That, along with lots of old-fashioned hospitality, makes the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show a great place to show and exhibit cattle. Everyone is welcome.
