Sussex Farmer Receives County Service Award

NEWARK, Del. — Alton L. Rogers of Georgetown, Del., received the 1998 Sussex County Outstanding Service to Agriculture Award. The presentation was made Aug. 12 at the Research and Education Center (REC) in Georgetown, following a picnic at the University of Delaware's Farm and Home Field.

Rogers' love of agriculture began long before 1965, the year he left carpentry to become a full-time grain farmer. Born and raised in Georgetown, he attended Georgetown High School before joining his father, Norman, in the family construction business; he even worked on some of the offices and laboratories for the REC, then known as the Substation.

A World War II veteran, Rogers served in the Army, stationed at Okinawa. He is married to the former Doris Clendaniel.

Rogers has served the agricultural community as a stockholder and past director of the Laurel Grain Company as well as stockholder and past director for Delaware Farm Credit. He is past chairperson and county committee member (three terms) for the Sussex County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee — now known as Farm Service Agency. In addition, he has served as manager of the New Ditch Company for the Division of Soil and Water.

A member of Grace United Methodist Church, Rogers also belongs to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion Post No. 8 and Union Lodge.

Rogers' service to agriculture through the University of Delaware's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources has been exemplary. He has supported college research and cooperative extension efforts by cooperating in field crop trials, and has served three terms as president of the Sussex County Extension Advisory Board, a volunteer organization that provides input on the college's extension efforts.
