

Dairy Princess

Roberta McConnell of Volant. An honor graduate of Wilmington Area High School, Julie is studying to become a certified gymnologist. Winners of the award are dedicated, hard-working dairy promoters.

Special awards went to Amanda

Sollenberger, Blair County princess and Lisa Heimbach, SUN Area princess. Honorable mentions went to Lacey Jean Zakostecky, Crawford princess and Laura Peachey, Mifflin County princess.

Creative presentations (skits) awards went to Rebecca Corman, Cumberland County princess and Megan Meyers, Franklin County princess. Honorable mentions went to Kristina Lea Baker, Tioga County princess and Lacey Jean Zakostecky, Crawford County princess.

Scrapbook honors went to Megan Meyers, Franklin County princess, and Lacey Jean Zakostecky, Crawford dairy princess. Honorable mentions went to Beckie Ruffner, Armstrong County princess and Kristina Lea Baker, Tioga County princess.

The Miss Congeniality Award, a prestigious award voted on by the princesses themselves for the most helpful and companionable contestant, went to Lisa M. Heimbach, SUN Area dairy princess, Mt. Pleasant Mills.

During the contest, Heimbach presented a skit entitled "Smile." She spoke about all the things that dairy producers could smile about, including being part of the number one ag industry in Pennsylvania.

Lisa said that milk products not only provide the necessary calcium but the nutrients in milk "aid in the production of antibodies to fight infection or fight off viruses."

Lisa said the state produces about $1.46 billion of dairy products, including 73 million gallons of ice cream and more than 80 million pounds of butter. In addition, Pennsylvania produces more than 348 million pounds of different kinds of cheeses.

She told the audience, "I want you to walk out of here with a big smile, because you help feed America."

Judges included Kirk C. Downey, Williamsport, Md.; Chip Pratt, Cazenovia, N.Y.; Pamela Szczerba, Newark, Del.; and Cindy Warner, Frederick, Md.

Speech judges included Gwen Bower, Harrisburg; Beth Moore, Chambersburg; and Boyd C. Wolfe, Harrisburg. Scrapbook judges were Stephanie Meyers, Reston, Va. and Jennifer Hutchinson, Towanda

Dairy royalty from New York also attended the coronation. Visiting the Pennsylvania dairy princesses was Julie Kelsey, New York State dairy princess.

The Tina M. Shultz Memorial Award went to Julie McConnell, left, presented by Arlene Wilbur, associate program director, PDPPS.

How Do You Remove Smoke, Mildew Odors?

Odors from smoke or mildew often become trapped in textiles, making them impossible to remove by normal cleaning techniques. Most of these odors, however, can be removed by your dry-cleaner through the use of ozone generators.

Ozone is formed through a process called oxidation, which causes the material with which the oxygen is combined to change its molecular configuration by losing one or more of its electrons.

Ozone generators work by passing dry air through a high frequency electrical field. This electrical discharge splits an oxygen molecule into two free atoms, which then combine with an oxygen molecule that has not been split to form ozone. The contact between ozone and the odors embedded in the textiles causes oxidation to re-occur, resulting in elimination of the odors and release of oxygen.

Some plants charge as much as 60 percent of the normal invoice price for this service. However, if the garment is valuable to you or if you have experienced a disaster such as a fire or flood, you may find it well worth the money.
