DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN
SUMMARY

U.S.D.A. was expected to make an official announcement after the Boards closed today, but this did light a late fire in the pits. Russian aid package is short and late from what traders were expecting earlier this week. Wheat merchandisers are very disappointed and bids lower again today. Corn treading water. Soybeans higher, with some oil bids expected to show up in the next few days. Export announcements not much better than nothing this week, after several weeks of very positive figures. Wheat 4 to 6 cents lower, except St. Louis 11 to 3 cents higher. Corn 1 cent lower to 1 cent higher with Southern Iowa as much as 4 cents higher. Sorghum 2 to 5 cents lower. Soybeans 3 to 10 cents higher.

Rains delayed harvest and country elevators making more storage room and hoping to avoid big outside piles of commodities this Fall. Rains doing a better job of moving grains than executives had indicated early. Some tracks are now under water due to flooding central Kansas. Sparks crop production estimates showed slight increases in corn and soybeans, but nothing to be a big market swing. Corn estimated to be 80 percent harvested and soybeans 60 percent. Combines still got a lot of ground to cover and now must fight the weather elements. Producers need two weeks of sunshine and dry weather to get the agony over with. Good yields sure helped low prices, but many reporting soybeans below expectations.
