CLOAK AND DAGUERRE?

No mystery here, but Louis-Jacques-Mandé Daguerre probably wore a cloak when he was perfecting his metal plate "daguerreotypes." Born on November 18, 1789, Daguerre was a successful French painter who invented the first technique to make permanent photographic images. Honor his memory this Thanksgiving by using part of your holiday to sort through that shoebox full of family photographs you've collected. Help family members name their distant relatives, then collect and label the best prints in an acid-free binder, or check out the new computer scanners that can preserve photographs even longer

"This is not I . . . retouched and smoothed and prettified to please . . ."

- Berton Braley "Sonnet To a Photographer"
