> Chef Michael DeVeny from the School of Culinary Arts at Yorktowne Business Institute kicked off the demonstrations with a new twist on roast lamb. DeVeny commented that overcooking is the most common mistake consumers make when preparing lamb.

Audience members had an opportunity to taste-test five different sauces served with lamb: mint pesto, walnut pesto, pepper jelly, pumpkin seed cream, and mango chutney, the crowd favorite.

In a cooking demonstration devoted to cheese, Chef DeVeny encouraged onlookers to dust off their fondue pots in predicting that "dip dining" will make a comeback this year. This new wave of fondue frenzy includes a greater diversity of ingredients. Audience members sampled such exotic flavors as Honey-Blue Cheese Fondue and Red Pepper-Dill Swiss Fondue.

The cheese fondue demonstration was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and the Middle Atlantic American Dairy Association.

> In another corner of the Farm Show, chefs from the Pennsylvania College of Technology School of Hospitality prepared a flavorful Roast 'Pork with

Molasses Rub". The special rub mixture in which the pork loin is marinated includes black peppercorns, coriander seed, molasses, brown sugar, garlic, and orange zest. Smoking and then roasting the meat results in a dark carmelized exterior that enhances the pork flavor

The Pennsylvania Pork Council, Golden Barrel Molasses, Garland Industries, and the Juniata Stinking Rose Company donated the products used in this event.

A wide variety of ther cooking demonstrations, featuring recipes using blackened catfish, mushrooms, vegetable strudel, emu, turkey, and wild game were used throughout Farm Show Week.
