Delaware County Cooperative Extension To Meet

SPRINGFIELD (Delaware Co.) — All interested residents of Delaware County are invited to the Delaware County Cooperative Extension Association, Inc., annual meeting and dinner April 13 at 6 p.m. at the Redwood Community Playhouse in Upland.

The annual meeting and guest speaker will follow a buffet dinner.

Dinner is $15 per person and tickets must be reserved by April 5. The meeting and speaker are free of charge. Call the office at (610) 690-2655 for more information.

The guest speaker will be Jane Mecum, an extension agent from Dauphin County, who will help us answer the question, "Why don't you think like me?" Mecum provides a humorous look at individual traits as they are affected by right or left brain dominance. Some individuals are creative, instant problem solvers and risk takers, while others are not. Some individuals are dependable, always on time and always reliable. These and other traits make us individuals who sometimes challenge one another in the way we get things accomplished.

Cooperative extension serves interested residents of the county through educational programs on health and nutrition, commercial horticulture, home horticulture, and youth programs which include 4-H clubs and curriculum enrichment for classrooms. Come to the meeting, meet the staff, and find out more about the programs or call the office to be added to appropriate mailing lists.
