

More Than 1,000 Attend Poultry Fund-Raiser

On behalf of PennAg Industries, Jim Shirk presents an award to Clair Hilsher, left, for his commitment in organizing the food booth at the state Farm Show.

More than 1,000 people attended the Spring Poultry Banquet of the PennAg Industries Poultry Council. Evening festivities began with hors d'oeuvres followed by dinner and entertainment.

 PennAg and formed the Poultry Council. PennAg Industries is now the umbrella organization to represent poultry, agronomic products, and feed and grain councils.

Later this year, plans are to integrate the Pork Council into PennAg. This would enable the different agricultural sectors to more effectively integrate with the agribusiness community.

The individual councils can lobby for member directives with more unity and strength for the agribusiness community.

"The association will keep tabs on what's going on but each group will work independently," Adams said.

In other business at the banquet, Shirk presented a special service award to Clair Hilsher for his work in organizing the poultry food booth at the state Farm Show. Hilsher takes a week's vacation from his employment in order to ensure that things run smoothly at the
