NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

In Boston, prices were unchanged. However, throughout the rest of the Eastern Region, prices were unchanged to lower on the larger sizes. Elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone was unsettled, mostly barely steady to weak. Demand was generally light to moderate, occasionally good for the limited feature activity. Supplies were at least adequate to ample throughout the country. Breaking stock supplies were at least adequate for the light to moderate demand. Light type hens were ample for current slaughter requirements.

National Grain Market

Correction to date only**

St. Joseph, MO

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

The Boards staged a late hour rally today to push grain and soybean bids higher on the close. Wheat 1 to 7 cents higher. Corn 1 to 2 cents higher. Sorghum steady to 1 cent higher. Soybeans steady to 5 cents higher. Prices are currently at a very low level, but processors and elevators have even bigger discount basis further down the road. This is true for new crop bids and even later this month. Ideal conditions exist early in the season for big production figures. There are large carry over stocks still in the storage bins. No export announcements on the books so far this week. Producers are looking at LDP. Hard Red Winter Wheat in most places is already 30-60 cents and Soft Winter Wheat 40-70 cents and combines have not even made the first rounds yet. Corn is not doing too bad, zero to two or three cents most places. Soybeans are rather costly right now. The majority of the counties have over 1.00 a bushel and a record crop is predicted by many analysts. When the farmers make the last runs and put the soybean drills under the shed for this year they rush down to the FSA offices to sign up.
